

Privacy policy and Cookies

Algotherm <https://www.algotherm.com/>

In order to enable you to browse as freely as possible on the Site and to improve the services provided by the Océan Terre Biotechnologie, we may need to collect information about you, some of which may involve your identification (the "Personal Data").

We can assure you that the Personal Data that we collect via the Website are processed in accordance with the provisions laid down by the legislation applicable to the protection of personal data.

Our group also has a Data Protection Officer whose job is to ensure the conformity of our processing and to work closely with the CNIL, which is the authority with jurisdiction for the protection of Personal Data.

As part of its responsibility for processing and publishing this Site, the Océan Terre Biotechnologie make it their priority to inform you in a clear and transparent manner about the way in which your Personal Data are collected, stored and processed. With this in mind, we would ask you to read this privacy policy carefully.

- Personal data: what does this mean?

So, that everything is perfectly clear, it is important that you know what the notion of Personal Data means. Personal Data is information which allows you to be identified, whether directly or indirectly. This may, in particular, include your surname, your first name, your address, your telephone number or your e-mail address but also the IP address of your computer, for example, or information about how you browse on our Site.

- What are the Personal Data that we collect on our Site?

The data entered on the contact form

In order to provide you with the best information and advice about our products, we provide you with the option of writing to us via the contact form on the Site. So, using this, you can ask us any questions that you may have, in particular about our products and services.

All you have to do is click on the tab "contact us" and you'll be taken to the form. The form contains a certain number of details that we ask you to provide, namely:

- your email address;
- your first name and surname;
- your title;
- your professional category;
- your address;
- your telephone number.

If you contact us, we may keep the information that you have provided. We may use your email address, in particular, to keep you informed about changes or future improvements to our services, or to offer you discounts or special offers if you have expressly agreed to them. If you agree to this, all you have to do is tick the box provided in the form which allows us to send you such messages by email. You can cancel your agreement at any time and at no cost by unsubscribing using the link to unsubscribe which is to be found at the bottom of any promotional email that you receive from us.

Location data

We have included a map from google maps on our Site so you can quickly find the nearest sales outlet for our products to your location. For this simply go to the "Sales outlets" tab and type the name of the town or the place where you are or any post code of your choice. GoogleMaps will then show you where the nearest sales outlets are for the product that you have chosen, based on the post code that you entered. In this way, you will have a list of the sales outlets with the address of the sales outlet, the distance from where you are and a contact at the point of sale.

The GoogleMaps service can also locate you directly via the IP address of your device and thus provide you with more accurate results. This service will only be activated with your prior and express consent. To access it, you need to click on the button "Locate Me". When you do so, you'll see an information banner appear at the bottom of your screen informing you that the Site would like to know your physical location. This service is managed solely by Google under its sole responsibility.

Also, please note that we do not host the geolocation data collected by google in order to show you the sales outlets.

Whenever you use google maps, google privacy rules may apply to you. If you want to know more about Google's privacy rules, we suggest that you read them here:
